

Teacher · Class · Student — Plain-Language Spec (Final Draft)

Purpose

Make it crystal clear how teachers, classes, homerooms, attendance, grading, specials, and support services work in Grade School (K–5) and Middle School (6–8).

Rules that apply everywhere (K–8)

- One homeroom per student, per year.
 - Homeroom = attendance anchor. (K–5 always; 6–8 if your school uses it.)
 - Classes carry grades only when marked graded. Gradebook is shown only for those classes.
 - Teachers edit grades only in the classes they teach.
 - Rooms are shared resources (Library, Gym, classrooms) — no double-booking.
 - Support services (Reading, Speech, IEP/504) have their own schedules/rooms, meet with selected students, and are hidden from the parent portal by default (or shown with limited detail if you choose).

Grade School (K–5)

Homeroom

- One homeroom per student; assigned by the admin each school year.
- Daily attendance is taken in the homeroom.

Core classes (inside the homeroom context)

- English, Math, Science, Social Studies, ...
- Separate graded classes by default. They're taught by the homeroom teacher unless the admin reassigns a subject to someone else.

Specials (Gym, Art, Music, other classes)

- Taught by different teachers. The homeroom attends together by rotation or you can select specific students.
- Graded by default (the admin can turn grading off).

- Attendance in specials can be taken or not — set per class by the admin.

Set-up sequence (simple)

1. Create each homeroom and assign the teacher for this year.
 2. Add core classes (graded by default)
 3. Add specials (graded by default; attendance optional per class).
 4. Enroll students (by homeroom or selected students), choose rooms.
 - Core classes are auto enrolled by the process of adding the student to the homeroom.

Middle School (6–8)

Homeroom / Study Hall (Advisory)

- Optional. If used, it's attendance only and not graded.
- You may keep the “One Homeroom / Student – Used for Attendance” banner if your school uses advisory; otherwise label it “Optional Homeroom / Study Hall.”

Core subject classes

- Each subject/period is its own class (e.g., Math 6 – Period 2; ELA 6 – Period 3).
- Teachers can teach multiple classes, even across different grades.
- Assign room for each class; schedule can be set before or after.
 - There is a schedule process that needs to be completed and solved for
- Attendance is taken in each class.
- Gradebook appears only for classes marked graded.

Specials in middle school

- Same as grade school: taught by different teachers; enroll by cohort or selected students; graded by default (admin can turn off); attendance optional per class.

Set-up sequence (simple)

1. (If used) create Homeroom/Study Hall for advisory/attendance (not graded).
2. Create subject classes by period; assign teacher, room, and time.

3. Add specials as needed; set grading and attendance choices.
4. Enroll students by schedule.

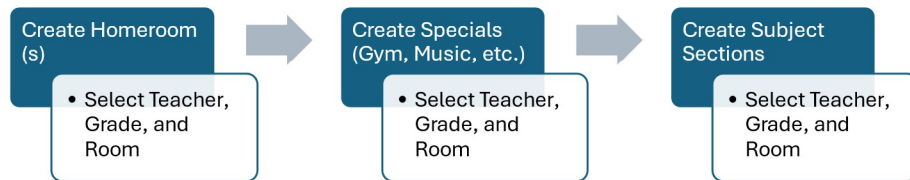

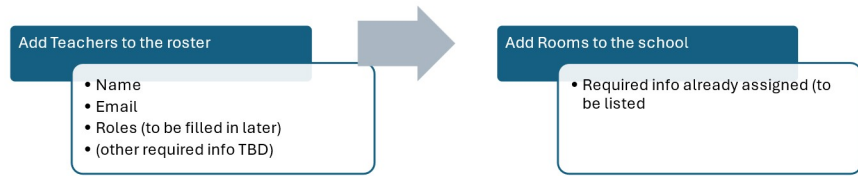

Roles & visibility (plain language)

- Homeroom lead (elementary) sees all information for their homeroom students.
- Middle-school teachers focus on their classes; may also lead advisory if your school uses it.
- Co-teachers and aides can be added to homerooms or classes as needed; they don't become the homeroom lead unless you assign them.
- Substitutes/coverage can be attached for specific dates; they never take ownership of the homeroom.

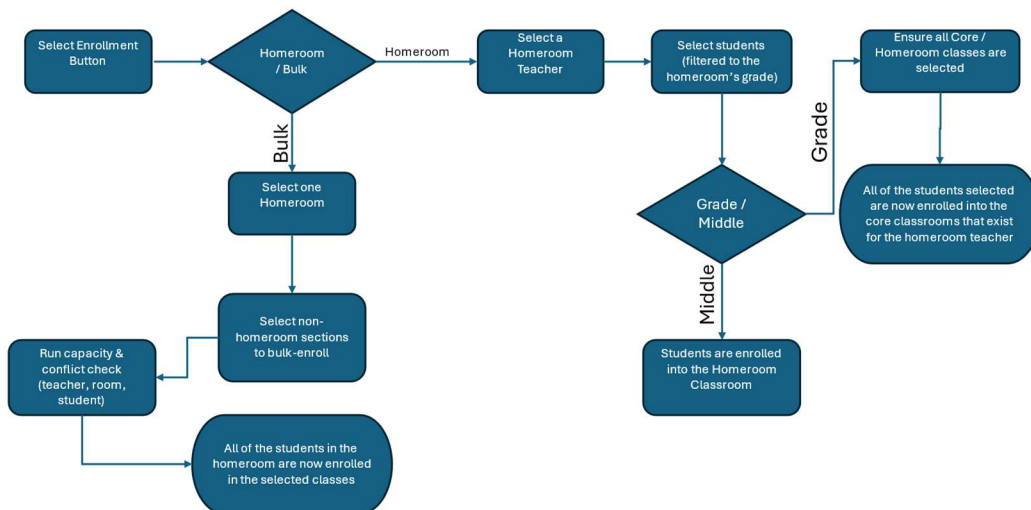

“Done Right” checklist

- Student has one active homeroom for the year.
 - Elementary attendance is homeroom daily; per-class attendance is on only where the admin enabled it.
 - Middle-school attendance is per class (and advisory if used).
 - Core classes are separate, graded by default; homeroom teacher teaches them unless reassigned.
 - Specials are separate classes, graded by default, attendance optional per class, and usually scheduled by homeroom rotation.
 - Teachers can teach multiple classes (even across grades) without schedule or room conflicts.
 - Support services run on their own schedules/rooms and are hidden from the parent portal by default.
